

Hallelujah!

(Psalm 147)

If you put these letter tiles in the right order, you will find that God's rule is not limited to the earth:

Today's lessons:

Isaiah 40:21-31

By creating the earth, God has proven that he is most powerful. Clearly he will also have the power to bring his people back from exile in Babylon!

Psalm 147:1-11, 20c

Israel sings the praises of the Lord who has brought them back from exile into their own country.

1 Corinthians 9:16-23

Pauls explains that he is proclaiming the Gospel not just for fun, but because it's a task that God has given him.

Mark 1:29-39

Jesus heals Simon Peter's mother-in-law from a fever, only to find that the whole city is waiting for him to cure all who are ill. And even when he goes out for a little quiet time, Simon and the others won't let him alone.

no peace for the messiah

When Jesus begins his ministry, he discovers how much work is waiting for him, before his mission will be accomplished and

CHURCHWOMEN WEEK IS READY.

Now, actually that is not what Jesus has come to do. But if you change the order of the letters you will find an important part of Jesus' work, in today's gospel and beyond:

Agnus Day

by James Welton

I THINK JESUS SHOULD HAVE SET UP SHOP AT SIMON'S HOUSE AND LET THE PEOPLE COME TO HIM.

WHEN JESUS HEADS OUT, IT REMINDS ME THAT GOD COMES LOOKING FOR US.

WHAT ABOUT FRANCHISING? THAT COULD WORK!

MARK 1: 29-39

Paul's Commission

Paul knows what is good for him (and for others!): to spread the message about Jesus Christ! As he tells the Corinthians here:
