Pentecost

June 8, 2025

Today's lessons:

Acts 2:1-21

On the fiftieth day after Easter the gathered disciples receive the Holy Spirit, just like Jesus had promised at his Ascension.

Psalm 104:24-34, 35b

This psalm celebrates the creative power of God's Spirit and the diversity of the creation.

Romans 8:14-17

The apostle Paul seems to see the Holy Spirit as a kind of baptismal sponsor who reminds all who are baptized that now they are children of God.

John 14:8-17 [25-27]

On Pentecost the disciples receive the Holy Spirit as Jesus had promised them during the Last Supper – and as we have heard just two weeks ago.

I'M ALWAYS ASTOUNDED
BY THE
STORY.

THAT GOD KEEPS
THE PROMISE OF THE HOLY SPIRIT?

THAT NO ONE CALLED THE FIRE DEPARTMENT?

All Fired Up!

In the second chapter of Acts we read, how on Pentecost, the disciples get in the right spirit for proclaiming the faith –
or rather how the Spirit got into them.
Can you figure it out?

Re-Creation

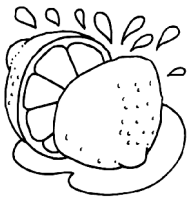

In today's psalm we hear how God unleashes his power:

Told You So!

Jesus told his disciples that it would happen.
But of course it was hard to imagine something like this:

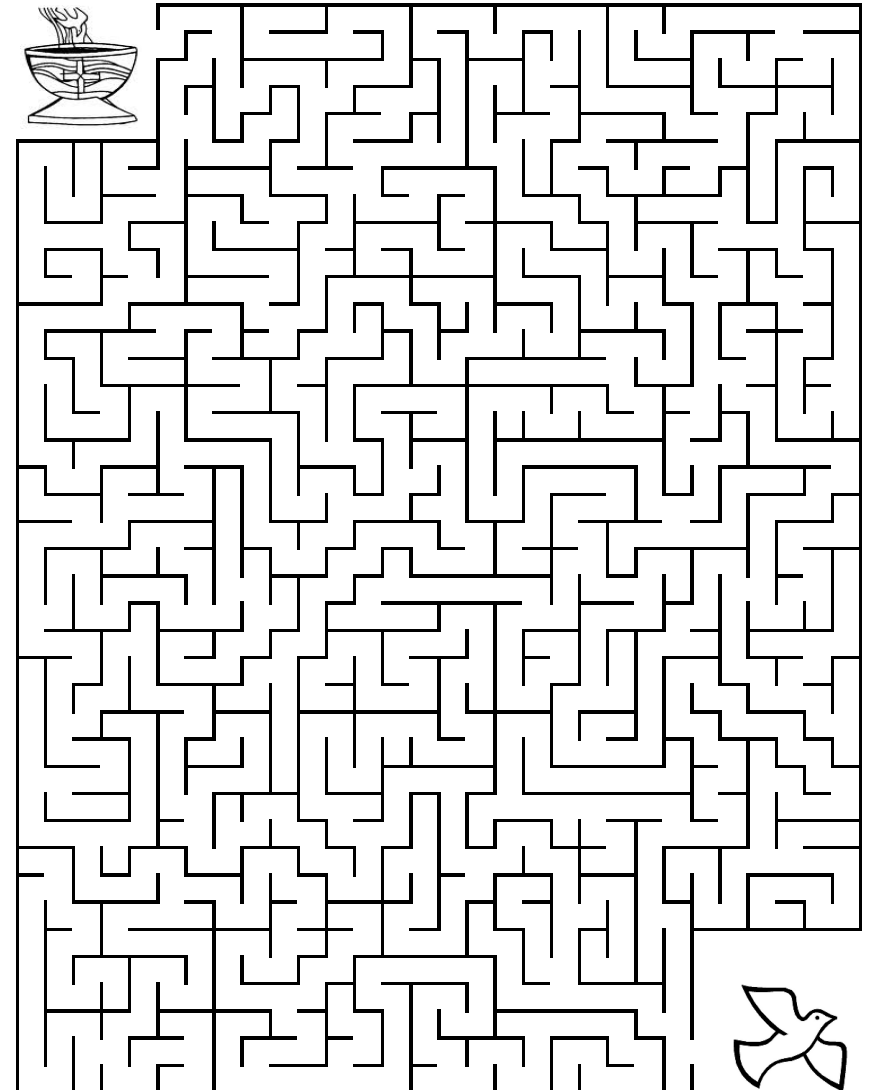

THIS FRUIT SPITS
HITHERTO.

But if you think it was not lemon juice the disciples were showered with on Pentecost Day, then you should try a different order of the same letters:

Led by the Spirit

Life can be confusing like a maze, even full of dead end streets.
But led by the Holy Spirit, all who are baptized will reach their destination and receive their inheritance as children of God.
